

CURRY COUNTY REPUBLICANS NOT KEEN FOR OFFICE

Patriots Slow to Answer Call of Party When Opposition
Is Strongly Entrenched;
Ticket Is Named.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Clovis, N. M., June 26.—The republicans held their county convention here Saturday afternoon. There was a dearth of candidates, as the patriots seemed unwilling to enlist in what, under normal conditions, with a united democracy, would mean the expenditure of more or less time and money, with certain defeat awaiting them in November, as heretofore a republican has stood about as much show of being elected to office in Curry county as a person would have locating the fabled pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

However, with the democrats more or less disorganized this year, and it being almost a certainty that more or less of them will decline to support at least some of the nominees, the republicans hope to be able to put over a couple of their candidates, and the idea yesterday seemed to be that if they put only a partial ticket in the field and concentrated their efforts on these offices, they might be able to put a couple of their candidates over in the November election.

The nominees are:
Senator—Dr. J. B. Westerfield.
Treasurer—Charles Justus.
Sheriff—George McLean.
Assessor—W. P. C. Parker.
Probate Judge—H. E. Rowell.
Commissioner first district—W. H. Luckworth.
Commissioner second district—James A. Lurie.

This leaves the representative, clerk, county superintendent, surveyor and one commissioner unprovided for.

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not appear to be curable. Sufferers from this affliction are condemned to undergo the periodic attacks every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which the attacks are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. An attack may often be prevented by taking two anti-kamnia tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamnia tablet every two hours during the attack. It eases the pain and brings rest and quiet. Anti-kamnia tablets may be obtained at all drug stores. Ask for Ask Tablets. They quickly relieve all pain.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Why is it that husbands and wives so seldom stay united on the screen? Alice Joyce and Tom Moore played opposite each other for months and were voted an ideal pair of screen lovers by all of the fans. After their marriage they separated, each one doing work in a different studio, and while Mr. and Mrs. Moore they have been very happy never again have they been screen lovers. Pretty Marie Dore of Lasky fame, who has had her good looking husband, Elliott Dexter, making love to her in movie pictures, has now left the Lasky flock and from henceforth will be seen in Morosco features.

"POOL OF GNOMES" IN KELLERMANN FILM

The Pool of the Gnomes is a scene which indicates better than any other the character of the forthcoming Annette Kellermann super-movie, "A Daughter of the Gods." This is the production said to have cost $1,000,000. Miss Kellermann, as the Dorian Maiden, enters a gnome village. The gnomes are about to imprison her in a mine when she is rescued by a fairy, who turns the gnomes distrust to affection. They lead her to a pool in a forest hung with moss and she performs her best swimming feats for their entertainment. These scenes constitute one of the most beautiful and imaginative parts of the spectacle.

In the depths of the pool the dream maid sees into the world of mortals, and visions her lover, the prince, in danger and his city in turmoil. She summons her gnome friends to the rescue, and a grotesque army of gnomes on donkeys rush to the aid of the prince.

The fairy takes a hand, and the gnomes on donkeys are transformed into giant warriors on chargers. The warriors are shown dashing across the screen, while the middle and rear of the cavalcade shows the gnomes dissolving from sight, to be replaced by the giant fighting men. The pictures of the gnome pool were made in the tropical forests of Jamaica.

Neil Shipman of the Vitaphone company is a happy girl these days, for her father and mother have moved to California from their home in Seattle, Wash., just to be near her. Miss Shipman has leased a bungalow on Hollywood for them.

STATE MUSEUM NOTES

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, June 26.—Miss Alice C. Fischer of Washington, D. C., chairman emerita of the School of American Archaeology, has contributed a monograph on the "Concepts of Nature Among American Natives," that is of wide interest. She says that a broad view of the concepts held by the tribes of this continent makes it evident that to the American natives the cosmos was a living unit, similar to a family, and permeated by a mysterious, unseen life-giving power which had brought nature into being and provided for its perpetuation through the dual masculine and feminine forces. Sky and earth are their simplest representatives. Each section is made up of parts and each part partakes of the function of its section. Man is not regarded as a distinct creation, but as an integral part of nature, deriving his physical and psychological existence from the same mysterious power that animates all other portions of the cosmos. Many tribes have given this power a specific name which is held in reverence. This power was the object of worship in the tribal rites, in which symbols of natural and physical forces were widely used, but nowhere did these symbols take on a human form. Tribal rites were primarily religious and were fundamental to the tribal organization which aimed to reflect the concepts of cosmos and man's relation to it. Secular government was subordinate to tribal rites. To the mysterious power certain human qualities were ascribed, as order, truthfulness, justice, pity. The right to govern was also attributed; the punishment of falsity and wrong-doing. These anthropomorphic ascriptions were never fully carried out and crystallized among the native Americans as was done on the eastern continent. The belief that all things were alive and could affect the physical and psychological life of man was also common to both hemispheres. The expression of this belief on the two continents affords material for an instructive comparison.

Splendid motion pictures of the excavations at the Pecos ruins were obtained by C. J. Blanchard for the United States government and he promises to return in October to take more views, especially of life in the Indian pueblos. One picture of the Pecos mission church and "Mass as featured by the School of American Archaeology, taken at sunset, is pronounced a thing of marvelous beauty by Mr. Blanchard and associates who declare that for pictorial qualities, aside from all other considerations, this portion of the United States stands unexcelled. They predict that within a few years New Mexico will entertain thousands of tourists where it entertains only hundreds at present.

AUSTRIANS IN GENERAL RETREAT, ROME SAYS

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Rome, June 26 (1916).—A general retreat of the Austrians in the Trentino district over a sector about twenty miles in extent is announced in an official statement issued by the Italian war office today. The statement says that the Italians are pressing the pursuit vigorously.

"The enemy, incapable of overcoming our defenses and under the energetic pressure which we have been conducting for several days, has been forced to begin a retreat north of the Mandrielle road. We have captured the positions of Castel Gambiello, Melette, Mount Longara, Gallia, Asilago, Sesana and Mount Cengio. Our advance continues vigorously close to the heels of the enemy."

Von Buelow Is Retired.

Berlin, June 26.—Field Marshal von Buelow, who commanded the second and third German army during the Marne advance, has been placed on the retired list owing to ill health.

Bowel Complaints in India.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick, that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. Obtainable everywhere.

GENERAL TREVINO OCCUPIES POINTS PERSHING LEAVES

Don Jacinto Respects Former Threat; Negro Prisoner Tells
Story of Carrizal; Six More Jailed.

(BY MORNING JOURNAL SPECIAL LEASED WIRE)
Chihuahua, Mexico, June 26.—On the heels of the American evacuation of San Gerónimo and Pachina, Gen. Jacinto Trevino has occupied these points with his troops, leaving strict orders that any attempt of General Pershing's men to return south must be forcibly prevented.

British Consul O'Hea has facilitated the removal of Americans at Torreon and Durango, providing them with a special box car with instructions that its progress be expedited.

Six More Prisoners Jailed.

Five of the six additional negroes made prisoner at Carrizal and brought here are named John Wilson, George M. Chaplin, T. Hopkins, Thomas Garfield and W. D. Gibson.

The prisoners tell of two white packers, only known to them as "Tex" and "Slim," who were with Captain Boyd's force, and who, they believe, escaped.

Gibson, speaking for his comrades, said that they were captured at Los Hornos, many miles from the scene of the fight by pursuing cavalry. He said the six of them were "trying to beat it for El Paso."

General Trevino announced that Gibson told him that the members of the expedition were lined up by Captain Boyd two miles out of Carrizal and told that "they might get through peacefully, or they might 'be up against it,' but that in any event there was only one thing to do and that was to obey orders."

Boyd Was Warned.

Gibson's story, as given out by General Trevino, said:

"Captain Morey joined us at Santa Domingo. That night four Mexicans came into camp and told us that the Carrizalistas at Carrizal had four machine guns. They were looking for beef. It was gossiped that these Mexicans had warned Captain Boyd he had better turn back, but I don't know if there was any truth in this talk."

"Two miles out of Carrizal we were lined up by Captain Boyd and told we might have to fight or we might get through peacefully but there was only one way to carry out orders and that was to obey them. This was the first time we had ever started anywhere without knowing where we were going."

Fought in Open.

"When the fighting started we were in an open plain and the Mexicans had the advantage of ditches and brush."

"Returning from his conference with the Mexican leader, Captain Boyd gave his horse to his striker and ordered us to advance in skirmishing order, and to hold our fire until we were fired upon."

The Better Part of Valor.

"Fifteen of our men dropped on the first volley. We fought hard until we were about surrounded. Then we dropped our guns and ran for it. We thought we would try and get to El Paso. We were overtaken at Los Hornos.

"We were brought back to Vela Ahumada, but were well treated. The soldiers' women cooked for us and we rode to Chihuahua on the top of a box car."

"One of the prisoners brought here was so light he was mistaken for a white man."

Clash With Outlaws.

General Eliazondo reported to General Trevino today that one of his outlaws had closed with a small band of outlaws in the vicinity of Los Hornos in the Satevo district, while from El Bail Col. Gonzales Diaz telegraphed confirmation of the report that the American expeditionary forces have evacuated Namiagua and are moving north of El Valle.

General Eliazondo reported that the bandits had been operating under the three chieftains, Pedron, Almeida and Javier Guerrero, and that he had captured and executed the latter two. He said also that in the engagement, in which he suffered no casualties, he seized a quantity of corn, arms, horses and saddles.

Six American employees of the Alvarado Mining and Milling company at Parral, who reached here recently on their way to the border, started to Juarez tonight under an escort provided by General Trevino. In the party were T. G. Hawkins, Jr., A. W. Morris, H. W. Collins, H. A. Bulek, H. C. Higley and J. Salas.
